

Madison eating disorders therapist

Description:

For many people, eating and weight issues are a life long struggle. Let me help you on your journey to a healthier, more balanced relationship with eating. I see individuals with a wide range of eating-related issues, including bulimia, anorexia, compulsive eating, and body image concerns. I help clients to uncover the meaning behind their eating and body issues, and find long-term solutions that work. When appropriate, I work closely with primary care providers and nutritionists to create a comprehensive treatment plan.
