

Alana Kaufman, LCSW

Description:

I am a Psychoanalyst and New York State Licensed Clinical Social Worker. I received my Master's Degree in Social Work from New York University and postgraduate education at Institute for Contemporary psychotherapy. I have been in private practice for ten years.

I am a compassionate and caring psychotherapist who will respect your feelings while working through issues of concern for your well- being. I believe that being curious about yourself and how you are in the world is a big part of the therapeutic action.

I use an eclectic approach adapting the different theories of psychology appropriately to the needs of the individual.

Working dynamically- through a mutual dialogue together we can explore and become curious regarding all areas of concern in your life.
