

Unbound Psychological Services, LLC

Description:

I have worked with eating disorders for over 6 years in various settings. I can help you identify what level of care you need, what treatment is available, and how to overcome your eating disorder. This can be a very resistant illness, but with patience and compassion, from me and for yourself, you can recover. I want to help you discover the underlying causes of your eating disorder and empower you with the tools necessary for recovery. I will be your guide and support on this very personal journey. I work closely with your medical team, family, and nutritionist to win your mind and body back from this disorder.
