

In loving memory

Description:

I'm a photographer and journalist from Barcelona. I'm working in a long term project about ED; based on my personal experience after leading a year in recovery to overcome ten years of bulimia, I decided to start documenting the struggle in girls battling the same disease. I'm working on the research of the 3rd chapter; which documents the indirect victims; patients' families and social environments, after losing a member because ED; all the emotional network which becomes the unwilling eyewitness of a painful degeneration. I'd like to concentrate on the private and forced process of assimilation in the wounded environment. I'll focus on bereaved familiesâ€™™ day-today routine, visiting their new lives, now marked by that baffling lack. My intention is to subtly and respectfully translate their grief and feeling of emptiness; to recover the memory of the lost member.
