

Couples, Mood, and Health

Description:

We are researchers at Arizona State University, and weâ€™re conducting a survey to learn more about couples, mood, and health. Weâ€™re especially interested in including couples where one partner has an eating disorder, and in learning what is most helpful for each partner in those couples. Weâ€™re also interested in learning about couples with a range of health behaviors, and who may or may not have concerns about eating or body image.

The survey takes about 60 to 70 minutes to complete, and you can complete it from any computer with Internet access. Your responses are completely anonymous. You can receive a $5 Starbucks gift card for participating.

Please visit our webpage <http://eatingresearch.wordpress.com/> for more information about the study and researchers, as well as to access the link to our survey. You can also contact us at edcouplesresearch@gmail.com.
